FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

20. On or about September 9, 2016, Board Inspector D. P. conducted a non-resident sterile compounding permit renewal inspection at Respondent's pharmacy located in Denver, Colorado, and was assisted by pharmacist-in-charge Pederson. D. P. asked Pederson what risk levels of sterile compounds were dispensed to California patients. Pederson stated that the pharmacy provided mainly non-sterile to sterile (high-risk) veterinary products.

21. D. P. requested various documents from Pederson, including compounding policies and procedures, completed recent patient-specific compounding records with associated prescription labels, quality assurance policies and procedures with documentation of end product testing, non-sterile to sterile compounded product testing documentation, and a list of all compounded preparations provided to California patients during the past year. Pederson told D. P. that his staff kept a log of sterile preparations compounded by the pharmacy and that the California patients could be highlighted on the log for the inspector's review. D. P. was given a log listing veterinary sterile compounded preparations that were supplied to patients with the California patients highlighted.

22. D. P. was also given compounding log worksheets for approximately eight sterile compounded preparations and the related prescriptions, prescription labels, and "soy-logs" (logs documenting in-house sterility testing of drug products). D. P. found that the prescription labels, including the label for Glycopyrrolate 0.2 mg/ml, were not in compliance with California law. D. P. also found that four sterile compounded injectable preparations, glycopyrrolate, cimetidine, cacodylate/copper, and methocarbamol, were dispensed with beyond use dates (BUD's) greater than 180 days. D. P. requested the validation paperwork for the extended BUD's. D. P. was given a certificate of analysis and a soy log for only one of the four injectable preparations, glycopyrrolate. D. P. was advised that the extended BUD's for the other three drug products were validated some time ago and that the paperwork might not be easy to locate.

23. On and between September 12, 2016 and September 30, 2016, D. P. requested certain documents and information from Pederson, including a list of sterile drug products the pharmacy provided to California patients during the last year; a current copy of the pharmacy's sterile compounding policy and procedures; dispensing records of sterile preparations the pharmacy provided to California patients for the last sixth months; the master formulas, sterility and pyrogens testing data and documentation, and stability studies used to extend the BUD's for glycopyrrolate, cimetidine, cacodylate/copper, and methocarbamol; and the compounding logs, master formulas, prescriptions, labels, and sterility and pyrogens testing data and documentation for certain other compounded products the pharmacy sent to California patients.

24. On and between September 23, 2016 and September 30, 2016, Pederson sent D. P. an Excel spreadsheet listing the sterile compounded prescriptions the pharmacy supplied to California patients, written documentation and justification for the extended BUD's for the four drug preparations, and the pharmacy's compounding policies and procedures.

25. On or about October 5, 2016, D. P. sent Pederson an email stating that she still had not received the sterility and pyrogens data and documentation for glycopyrrolate, cimetidine, cacodylate/copper, and methocarbamol or the compounding logs, master formulas, prescriptions, labels, and sterility and pyrogens testing data and documentation for the other compounded products.

26. On or about October 7, 2016, Pederson provided D. P. with compounding worksheets and prescriptions labels for estrone AQ suspension 5 mg/ml injection, acetyl D glucosamine 50 mg/ml injection, and stanozolol suspension 50 mg/mil injection, and a revised Excel spreadsheet. D. P. found that of the 164 prescriptions listed on the spreadsheet, approximately 72 prescriptions (44%) of sterile compounded products were dispensed prior to the required 14-day quarantine period. D. P. also found that the prescription labels for Estrone, Acetyl D Glucosamine, and Stanozolol were not in compliance with California law and that the three drug products were dispensed with BUD's greater than 180 days.
