Dear California Board of Pharmacy,

Every day, California's pharmacists ensure safe, accurate, and timely care for patients. All the while being tasked with filling more prescriptions, taking on more responsibilities, and facing more pressure. Without the staff that is needed to provide safe, high-quality care, patients are put at risk.

Pharmacists are already facing critical staffing shortages, and the solution is strengthening pharmacist staffing, not remote processing.

Remote processing prioritizes employers' bottom lines over patients. Patients deserve access to pharmacists for phone calls, counseling, and clinical services.

Sincerely,

Grace Huynh
